

ART HISTORY, BA

The Art History major provides a foundation for answering key questions about what it means to be human as well as valuable skills for today's workplaces. A specialized focus on images, objects, and the built environment promotes critical and creative approaches to analysis, problem-solving, writing and visual communication in a variety of media. Interdisciplinary collaborations encourage aesthetic, historical, economic, and ethical questions in order to produce new knowledge, sophisticated readers, engaged writers, critical viewers, independent thinkers, and confident cultural citizens who are well prepared to thrive in global society.

Through innovative research, teaching, and outreach activities, the Department of Art History takes a leading role in promoting visual literacy, emphasizing careful attention to continuities and differences across human history and world cultures. Examining expressive forms, from artifacts to new media, we explore the ways in which art and visual and material culture are fully integrated into larger cultural histories.

ADVISING AND CAREERS

ADVISING AND CAREERS DECLARE OR CANCEL THIS MAJOR

Please follow the process described on the Art History website (<https://arthistory.wisc.edu/undergraduate-program/#advising>).

Letters & Science students have unique perspectives, knowledge, and skills that make them highly desirable to today's employers. Art History students have career advising and mentoring from the department's academic advisor and the Director of Undergraduate Studies, plus networking and advice from our faculty and alumni. Talk with any of your Art History professors and with our advising team about your questions: career paths and internships; preparation for the job search; or applying to graduate school: arthistory.wisc.edu/undergraduate-program/#advising (<https://arthistory.wisc.edu/undergraduate-program/#advising>)

We encourage students in the major to seek information from Art History faculty and advisors about career paths and internships; preparation for the job search; and applying to graduate school. Both the department and L&S also provide networking opportunities with professionals in the field (employers and alumni).

Honors in the Major is a strong choice for students who want more advanced study in art history, especially those interested in continuing in art history graduate studies or a career directly in the field of art history (e.g., curator, gallerist, etc.). Review the Honors in the Major requirements (<https://guide.wisc.edu/undergraduate/letters-science/art-history/art-history-ba/#requirements>), including the minimum grade-point average in all Art History courses, and talk with the academic advisor about how this fits your academic and career plan.

STUDY ABROAD

We strongly encourage a study-abroad program as part of your Art History learning. You gain firsthand experience of other cultures and languages and have the opportunity to study major works of art. Credit for appropriate coursework may be applied toward the major; see the Study Abroad website (<https://studyabroad.wisc.edu/academics/>).

WISCONSIN EXPERIENCE

WISCONSIN EXPERIENCE

The Department of Art History promotes an understanding of art, architecture, objects, and ideas worthy of close visual analysis to be local, hemispheric, transnational, and international, and existing both within and outside of traditional institutions of display. In guiding our students to develop skills in visual analysis, close reading, historical contextualization, and communication and interpretation through writing about art, conducting research on objects in our museum collections, and organizing exhibitions, our department is committed to building an understanding of how humans perceive, create, and inhabit the world. Opportunities to work with and present collections to the public, both at the Chazen Museum and through internships at other Wisconsin institutions, afford our students the chance to connect with diverse audiences beyond the borders of campus.
