

MIDDLE EAST STUDIES, CERTIFICATE

Given the immense importance of the Middle East and North Africa region in shaping contemporary world politics, the Middle East Studies certificate is designed to provide an interdisciplinary perspective of the region's history and contemporary dynamics and their representations across the diaspora. The Middle East Studies certificate offers a unique opportunity for students to develop their interest and knowledge of this region through a wide range of courses taught by UW–Madison professors with great expertise in the fields of political science, history, religious studies, sociology/anthropology, art history, literature, and modern languages.

The Middle East Studies certificate gives students a variety of career opportunities in international affairs, public policy, journalism, governmental institutions, education, public health, humanitarian organizations, economic development, and security, or going on to graduate school and a career in academia.

WISCONSIN EXPERIENCE

As a regional center within the Institute for Regional and International Studies (<https://iris.wisc.edu/>), we support and enhance international and global awareness in our student communities and inspire informed thinking about the complexities of our world. We encourage our students to connect to international networks and our regional communities through our program's lecture series, film screenings, and varied outreach events and activities. We encourage our students to study abroad, do international internships, and learn foreign languages, and we expect them to gain an interdisciplinary grounding in global and regional affairs. We provide resources and expertise on our world area to students, and prospective students, and more broadly to K-12 teachers and students, postsecondary educators and graduate students, businesses, the media, the military, the community at large, and anyone else who is interested.
