

SANDRA ROSENBAUM SCHOOL OF SOCIAL WORK

Social work's special contribution rests on an established body of knowledge, values and skills pertinent to understanding human relationships and the interaction between people as individuals, in families, groups, organizations, and communities.

Undergraduates in the Sandra Rosenbaum School of Social Work receive a liberal arts education in the social and behavioral sciences and their application to human problems that prepares them to be informed citizens involved in human services or social welfare problems and policies. Students take courses in a variety of social sciences to enable them to view social welfare in its broad social, economic, and political contexts.

Social Work courses (https://guide.wisc.edu/courses/soc_work/) offer a theoretical understanding of social problems and an introduction to practice methods used by social workers. The curriculum covers areas such as aging, family and child welfare, poverty, mental health, developmental disabilities, substance use disorders, diversity, race and ethnicity, criminal justice, oppression and social, economic and environmental justice, and at-risk populations.

MISSION

The mission of the UW–Madison Sandra Rosenbaum School of Social Work is to enhance human well-being and promote human rights and social and economic justice to achieve an equitable, healthy, and productive society. The school aims to:

- create, advance, strengthen, and integrate interdisciplinary knowledge for students and the profession through research, scholarship, teaching, and practice;
- educate students to become highly skilled, culturally competent, and ethical practitioners who will provide effective leadership for the profession of social work within the State of Wisconsin, nationally, and internationally;
- promote change at levels ranging from the individual to national and international policy, including empowering communities and populations that are disadvantaged and developing humane service delivery systems; and
- create and disseminate knowledge regarding the prevention and amelioration of social problems.

UNDERGRADUATE DEGREE PROGRAMS

The Sandra Rosenbaum School of Social Work offers a Bachelor of Social Work (<https://guide.wisc.edu/undergraduate/letters-science/social-work/social-work-bsw/>) (BSW) degree and a Social Welfare major for the Bachelor of Arts (<https://guide.wisc.edu/undergraduate/letters-science/social-work/social-welfare-ba/>) (BA) or Bachelor of Science (<https://guide.wisc.edu/undergraduate/letters-science/social-work/social-welfare-bs/>) (BS) degrees. All three programs prepare students for further academic study or for employment in selected human service arenas. The Bachelor of Social Work prepares students as beginning-level professional social workers. The Social Welfare major offers an overview of current social problems.
